

HOMEWORK REVIEW QUESTIONS - CHAPTER IX

1. NTFS and FAT are relevant for which operating system?
2. Inodes are used in which file system?
3. What is the function of an IDE and an EIDE?
4. What term refers to small bits of information stored by some computer programs that are useful in forensic investigations? This can contain the history of the document.
5. This character code structure consists of 128 standard codes, each of which can be represented by a 7-digit binary number.